

MAYOR'S MESSAGE

Dear Friends and Neighbors,

During this season of thanksgiving, I have so many reasons to express my gratitude. Among them, I often feel through my work as Mayor like I am seated at a bountiful table with good friends all around me.

Such sentiment can easily be attributed to the generosity and kindness of those making Taylorsville home. I see it every day: Selfless acts of giving done simply out of a desire to make others feel better or to brighten another's day.

Our excellent quality of life can be traced directly to these often simple gestures. Such individual contributions strengthen our neighborhoods. The health of our neighborhoods, in turn, builds our community and city as a whole. Take, for example, the small gesture of a giant pumpkin. The 1,608-pound pumpkin, grown by Taylorsville residents Andrew and Yvonne Israelsen, was recognized as the largest in the state this year and the largest ever grown in Utah outside a greenhouse. It truly was a sight to behold.

Growing the pumpkin, which sat in the Israelsens' front yard for several weeks, took months of dedication — watering and measuring and turning it just right so it would take shape while not breaking off the vine. The Israelsens have grown large pumpkins for several years, and this was the second of their pumpkins to take first place in the Utah Giant Pumpkin Growers' Weigh Off. (Read more at www.taylorsvilleut.gov).

The pumpkins have brought their neighborhood together. Random people drive by and grin upon seeing the giant pumpkins, and the Israelsens for years have hosted schoolchildren who walk over from nearby Calvin Smith Elementary to learn more. Asked why they do it, the answer was simple: "They make people happy," Andrew Israelsen said.

The motivation was the same for the two Taylorsville boys who wanted to make their neighborhood Bennion Park a little better. There were smiles all around as two beautiful maple trees were planted and a "little library" installed this past month because of their efforts (See story on Page 3).

And it was the same again at the recent one-year anniversary/ribbon cutting held by the close-knit, one-of-a-kind Summit Vista retirement community (See Page 5). "Some may think we are in the real estate business," CEO Mark Erickson said at the event, "but we're really in the 'people business.'"

People building people. Neighbors helping neighbors. It truly is what makes Taylorsville such a wonderful place to live, and I couldn't be more grateful.

—Mayor Kristie S. Overson

Church Announces Plans to Build Temple in Taylorsville

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints has announced plans to build a temple in Taylorsville.

"This is such good news for our city," said Taylorsville Mayor Kristie Overson. "We look forward to the serenity, peace and beauty that a temple is sure to bring to our community, as well as the contribution it's expected to make to Taylorsville's rich mosaic."

"We have long enjoyed a good partnership with The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints," she added, "and we look forward to working even more closely on this project."

City leaders have few details on the project at this time, and anticipate that church officials will release additional information, including exact location and site plans, soon.

“We are thrilled that Target has chosen Taylorsville as its new store site,” said Mayor Kristie Overson in making the announcement. “Target is, of course, well known for its customer service, modern design concepts and the high quality of its products and merchandise. More so, the company has a community mindset and takes pride in community involvement and service. We are very much looking forward to this partnership.”

The site offers high visibility and an ease of location, Overson said, noting that Taylorsville’s proximity in the heart of the Salt Lake Valley makes the city the perfect place for investment and new growth. The I-215 freeway exits directly into Taylorsville and into The Crossroads center. The center and store are also bordered by main arterial Redwood Road to the east and 5400 South at the north of the center.

“Target is sure to bring added value to the Crossroads of Taylorsville shopping center,” said Community and Economic Development Director Wayne Harper. “Target is the perfect fit, providing a strong foundation for the continued vitality and vibrancy of the area.”

Target’s opening fits right in with the City’s 2020 Vision, including new master-planning efforts focusing on retail centers as well as commercial district envisioning and revitalization. The planning efforts have concentrated on four primary areas, including 5400 S. Redwood Road.

At 166 acres, it is the largest of the four commercial center study areas. On the east side of this study area is the Taylorsville Walmart, and Utah’s only Regal Cinemas is located on the west. Additional stores in the Crossroads of Taylorsville include a Jo-Ann store, TJ Maxx, Ross, FYE, and Harmons.

Target will replace the Shopko store in that location, which closed in March 2019.

The temple in Taylorsville is one of eight new temples, including two in Utah, that the church plans to build. The other announced Utah temple will be built in Orem.

Taylorsville will be the first temple built in the Salt Lake Valley since the Draper and Oquirrh Mountain temples opened in 2009. The Taylorsville and Orem temples will be the 22nd and 23rd temples in Utah.

The announcement was made at the church’s 189th Semiannual General Conference by President Russell M. Nelson on Oct. 5.

COUNCIL CORNER

By Council Chair Dan Armstrong

During the month of November, we celebrate both Thanksgiving and Veterans Day, and in my mind, nothing could be more appropriate. Our veterans and their service top my list of the blessings for which I am most grateful.

As you may know, Veterans Day is the result of efforts by World War II veteran Raymond Weeks from Birmingham, Ala., who asked that Congress expand Armistice Day to celebrate all veterans. At his prompting, Congress passed a bill on June 1, 1954, replacing "Armistice" with "Veterans," and the day has been known as Veterans Day ever since. There is no apostrophe in "Veterans Day." That is, of course, because it is a day that belongs to all veterans. The United States Department of Veterans Affairs notes this spelling, recognizing that it is "because it is not a day that 'belongs' to veterans, it is a day for honoring all veterans."

It is my sincere privilege to pay tribute to all veterans as we recognize Veterans Day on Nov. 11. As a City Council, we also collectively extend our heartfelt respect to all veterans and their families. We celebrate and honor their patriotism, love of country and willingness to serve and sacrifice for us.

Many have given the ultimate sacrifice of their lives in defense of our freedom. Others' lives are forever changed because of their service. Gen. Colin Powell notably said, "On Veterans Day, put out your flags, cheer the marchers at parades, and go to tributes. But when you wake up the next day, Nov. 12, remember that it's still Veterans Day for our veterans — and it will be every day of their lives."

Showing Gratitude to Our Veterans this Thanksgiving

Our country has faced many difficulties and challenges. Our freedoms have been at dire risk more than I wish to count. It is interesting to note, for instance, that there were only 21 years between World War I and World War II. Many of the soldiers who fought in the first horrible war went on to fight in the second. Interestingly, too, it wasn't until 1931 (during the interwar period from 1918 to 1939) that the "Star Spangled Banner" was adopted as our national anthem.

Prior to that, President Woodrow Wilson ordered in 1916 that "The Star-Spangled Banner" be played at military and other appropriate occasions, and in 1899, the U.S. Navy officially adopted the song. It was the Veterans of Foreign Wars which started a petition in 1930 for the United States to officially recognize "The Star-Spangled Banner" as the national anthem. Tribute to our veterans, stretching back to our country's very origins, is encapsulated perfectly by the song.

O thus be it ever, when freemen shall stand Between their loved homes and the war's desolation.

While I personally did not have the opportunity to serve, two of my brothers and many of my friends are veterans. I also honor my son-in-law who while serving on a ship with the Navy contracted a deadly virus, which required a heart transplant. He is truly a hero.

I am grateful that I have a chance to pause and reflect on their sacrifice every time I enter Taylorsville's City Hall. Nine beautiful bronze statues depicting veterans stand at our entrance. Erected in 2011, those statues make up the Veterans Memorial at Taylorsville

City Hall and are a reminder whenever I am there of what is most important.

So, at this time of thanksgiving, I extend my deepest gratitude for all that our veterans have given to defend our freedom and country. I am forever indebted for their sacrifice and honor them, not only on Veterans Day but throughout the year.

Tanner's Trees Are Planted and Little Library Installed at Bennion Park

"Oh, wow," he and his friends exclaimed, applauding as city workers placed the first one into the ground. The trees were planted on the evening of Oct. 10 at Bennion Park after Tanner raised more than $725 from a root beer float stand to bring more shade to the park. The city matched Tanner's donation and Mountain America Credit Union pitched in another $300.

Tanner, who is a third-grader at Bennion Elementary, put up the root beer float stand in his front yard during the summer after playing at the park and finding there was not enough shade. He thought about what he could do and decided to raise some money for trees by selling root beer floats. Tanner's parents said they were grateful for the overwhelming generosity of their neighbors who all wanted to support Tanner's cause. Tanner's mother, Jennifer Cowley, said one person put $50 into Tanner's root beer stand jar and didn't even want a float.

Tanner's mother, father, and grandmother were beaming with pride at the informal tree planting ceremony held at the park where Mayor Kristie Overson thanked Tanner for his good work. "We're all here because of you," she said.

Council Member Meredith Harker also unveiled a new "little library" that her son Mitchel built as his Eagle Scout project, and two new green metal benches from the city were installed on either side of the book-share.

"What a wonderful addition to the park," Mayor Overson said. "Thank you to everyone for your support and helping to make Tanner's vision a reality."

Fire Safety Planning and Practice Creates Heroes

By UFA Capt. Richard Rich

This past month we recognized Fire Prevention Week, which is observed each year during the week of October 9. The week commemorates the Great Chicago Fire, which began on Oct. 8, 1871, and caused devastating damage. In all, the fire killed 250 people, left 100,000 homeless, destroyed more than 17,400 structures and burned more than 2,000 acres of land.

While we are fortunate our fire prevention efforts have dramatically reduced the number of structure fires, they still exist. The latest statistics from 2017 indicate we had 1,319,500 structure fires in the U.S. This is a significant number, but it actually represents a continued trend downward since 2008. We have seen a 6.2 percent decrease in fires since 2008. This is a fantastic trend, but the disturbing fact is the number of deaths associated with these fires has actually increased. Over the same period of time, we have seen the number of fatalities trend upward. From 2008-2017, we have experienced a 9.6 percent increase in fatalities.

The increase in fatalities can be attributed to an accelerated fire behavior that we were not faced with in the past decades. Fires are burning faster and hotter than they ever have. This translates to a much shorter time for a structure to develop an environment that will not support life. Once a fire is detected, getting out is a life and death effort.

In a typical home fire, you may have as little as one to two minutes to escape safely from the time the smoke alarm sounds. Escape planning and practice can help you make the most of the time you have, giving everyone enough time to get out. Plan ahead for your escape and once out, stay out. Do not go back in for anything.

In the time it takes to escape, the fire will have grown to the point where the environment will no longer support life. Fire responses within Taylorsville and surrounding communities will have the first fire engines arriving in approximately four minutes. Many fatalities associated with residential fires are individuals who exited the structure only to have gone back in and perished.

In a fire, mere seconds can mean the difference between a safe escape and a tragedy. Fire safety education isn't just for schoolchildren. Teenagers, adults and the elderly are also at-risk in house fires. Encourage those around you to plan and practice their escape. It's these simple measures that matter. Stay safe and remember, you do not have to wear a cape to be a hero.

Light the Night Effort Honors Fallen Firefighters

Taylorsville's two fire stations were aglow in red this past month.

The lighting was part of the "Light the Night" event through Oct. 6. The effort by the National Fallen Firefighters Foundation is focused on raising awareness and remembering the firefighters who died in the line of duty. Every October, the foundation sponsors the official national tribute to all firefighters who died in the line of duty during the previous year.

To conclude the week this year, the 38th National Fallen Firefighters Memorial Service was held in Emmitsburg, Md., to honor 92 firefighters who died in 2018 and 27 firefighters who died in the line of duty in previous years. Among them was Battalion Chief Matthew Burchett of the Draper City Fire Department who died on Aug. 13, 2018, while working on the fire line of the Mendocino Complex Fire in California. He was 42 years old and had worked for 20 years with the Unified Fire Authority.

This was the first year the Taylorsville stations participated in "Light the Night" and they now anticipate doing so each year going forward.

Police Chief Honors Taylorsville Business, Officers

Mayor Kristie Overson, Police Chief Tracy Wyant and Det. Scott Lloyd extended their great appreciation to Jeanaea Lorton of the Taylorsville Chick-fil-A for her steadfast support and partnership.

Lorton was recognized with a plaque at a recent City Council meeting. Mayor Overson noted her generous community support. "To those who live, work and visit the city of Taylorsville, your generosity is both noticed and appreciated," she said.

Det. Lloyd said Lorton supports the police department with anything it needs. She often donates coupons for sandwiches and ice cream that Lloyd gives to schoolchildren as an attaboy for their good work. "You'd think I was handing out a bag of cash," Lloyd said of the appreciative students.

"Jeanaea goes above and beyond," he added. "There hasn't been one time when she hasn't asked, 'How can I help and what can I do for you.' I can't thank her enough."

Also honored at the Council's Sept. 18 meeting were Officer Anthony Martinez, Officer Dennis Decker and Sgt. Brett Miller as respective officers of the month for July, August and September.

Officer Martinez was recognized for making a traffic stop that resulted in the seizure of drugs and apprehension of two gang members. "Officer Martinez should be acknowledged for his work ethic and resolve in keeping the residents of Taylorsville City safe," Chief Wyant said.

Officer Decker was recognized for consistently helping not only his fellow officers but anyone in need. "Whether it's mentoring and training new officers, signing up for last minute staffing needs, ensuring a fellow officer is acknowledged or going above and beyond in the community that he serves, Dennis is truly an amazing officer and person," said Chief Wyant.

Honored as September's Officer of the Month, Sgt. Miller is a "go-to leader," the chief said. "I can say with great certainty that Brett Miller is one of the most proficient law enforcement officers in the entire State of Utah. His record of investigations, apprehensions and results are not only remarkable but corroborated."

New Fitness Center for Women Opens in Taylorsville

Be Fit Forever (BFF) is open for business in Taylorsville.

The new fitness center specializing in women's needs has a unique story. The Curves fitness center at 2302 W. 5400 South was facing closure. But its members weren't going to let that happen so they pulled together in an effort to open a local community fitness center there. They signed a pledge sheet to rally support and volunteered services, supplies and time.

Current owner Holly Sawyer charged forward and opened Be Fit Forever on July 1. A Ribbon Cutting with city officials and ChamberWest was held on Sept. 27 to celebrate the occasion.

Sawyer describes BFF as a gathering place where a diverse group of women create new friendships that would not likely happen elsewhere. Fitness coaches monitor strength training and cardio workouts and help individuals reach personal goals.

BFF's hours are Monday through Friday 5:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. and Saturday 7 to 11 a.m. Stop by the center or call, 801-432-7591, for more information.

Summit Vista Marks Anniversary, Expansion

Summit Vista residents and employees joined city officials and ChamberWest representatives to mark the retirement community's one-year anniversary and grand opening of its second building, Maple Point.

Since opening a year ago, Summit Vista has received a number of national and local accolades, noted CEO Mark Erickson. Some may think of it as a real estate business, he said, but it is actually a people business. He pointed to some numbers showing its success: Since its opening, Summit Vista has served 42,000 meals and provided 10,000 hours of training to its employees. It also has 26 resident-run clubs, which does not count all the activities offered by the community. It is the people who live at Summit Vista who make the difference, he said.

Mayor Kristie Overson, who was among those speaking at the event on Oct. 3, agreed, saying she most looks forward to getting to know the new residents who move in. "It is exciting to see our city grow as more and more people make Taylorsville their home," she said. "We are so glad to have you here."

Upon its opening a year ago, Summit Vista was described by the state's largest daily newspaper as "unlike anything in Utah." It is among the biggest senior projects in the state and a beautiful asset for the City of Taylorsville, Mayor Overson said.

A first-of-its kind retirement community, Summit Vista has made a huge impact on the city. The construction itself has redefined Taylorsville, turning the immediate area from empty, undeveloped land into a true gem, she said. "Summit Vista has been an amazing partner over this past year and many years before that as we have worked together in planning. We could not have asked for a better supporter and ally of Taylorsville City than Summit Vista."

Summit Vista's success also supports Taylorsville's own 2020 Vision for the year 2020 and beyond, Mayor Overson added. "As a city, we are keenly focused on bringing new business and housing to Taylorsville as part of this 2020 Vision. We also are working on furthering plans for prime development locations, transportation and land use. We are thrilled about the possibilities and future landscape of our city and all that Summit Vista brings."

Several residents spoke about how much they enjoy living at Summit Vista, and a few of the first residents to move into the Maple Point building joined ChamberWest for a celebratory Ribbon Cutting to mark the occasion. Next up on the horizon, Erickson said, is the construction and opening of the community's assisted living facility.

Taylorsville Bennion Heritage REMEMBRANCES

The Taylorsville Historic Preservation Committee would like to feature four generations of Steadman Jewelry owners/operators. This is something that doesn't happen very often to businesses in Taylorsville.

It all started in 1904 with Edward Steadman who had his watch repair shop located at 59 East 4800 South in Murray, Utah. He was a self taught watch and clockmaker and worked at this address for 25 years.

One of Edward's sons, Virgil O. Steadman decided to also make the watchmaking business his profession. Taught by his father, Virgil joined Edward in the watch repair business in 1945. Some of the other Steadman brothers also were skilled at repairing watches. Virgil was a forward-thinking man, and thought a better location for the business would be on State Street at 4824 South, and later at 4844 S. State also in Murray.

This Year's Youth Council is Sworn In

The new Taylorsville Youth Council is ready to work. The council members were formally sworn in this past month.

Kyndra Burnett is serving as Youth Council Mayor, and Maizie Romney is the Youth Council Chair. Kyndra and Maizie also join David Stump as Youth Council Ambassadors. This year's council is made up of 15 youth from Taylorsville, who will serve for the 2019-20 school year.

"Leaders don't create followers they create more leaders," said Youth Council Member Madeline VanWagenen, citing a quote by business management writer Tom Peters. "I think that is leadership at its core, and as a Youth Council, I want us to focus this year on building each other up."

The Youth Council members pledged during the council meeting on Oct. 2 to support, obey and defend the constitution of the United States and State of Utah and to discharge their duties with fidelity. They were formally congratulated by Mayor Kristie Overson and the City Council.

NOVEMBER WFWRD UPDATES

FALL LEAF COLLECTION

The annual Fall Leaf Collection Program began on Oct. 15 and will last through Nov. 30.

During this time Taylorsville residents can pick up leaf bags at:

- Taylorsville City Hall: 2600 W. Taylorsville Blvd.

Leaf bags can be dropped off at:

- South Ridge Park: 5210 S. 4015 West
- Valley Ball Complex: 5100 S. 2700 West
- Vista Park 2055 W. 5000 South

WFWRD leaf bags are limited to 10 bags per household, and available while supplies last. Residents can also use and drop off their own purchased leaf bags or lawn bags, so long as they only contain leaves. Please see the WFWRD website at wasatchfrontwaste.org for districtwide drop-off locations.

SHARPS CONTAINERS

There are many medical conditions which require the use of lancets or needles. Due to the extreme health and safety hazards these items pose, it is important to remember that these items should never be placed loosely in your garbage can, but should be disposed of in a properly identified sharps container. Also, these items, including sharps containers, are not recyclable and should never be placed in your blue recycle can. For more information, you can contact the Salt Lake County Health Department (385-468-4100 or slco.org/health) on proper disposal of these and other hazardous materials.

CART PLACEMENTS

Please remember to keep your garbage/recycle/green carts at least 3 feet away from each other and from other objects, such as cars, trees or mailboxes. This space is needed for the automated collection arms on trucks to safely grab and empty the carts.

During this Thanksgiving Month, Consider Water and Conserve

In November we celebrate a day of thanksgiving along with a day of appreciation for veterans who have served to maintain our freedom. An unknown author said, "Freedom is never free." We as a country are thankful for that precious freedom and have used it to construct an infrastructure supporting the needs of the people like no other.

We all currently benefit from readily available, safe and reliable water and sewer services. Now it is time we consider water conservation for all those who will need water in the future. As you consider implementing your personal strategy for water conservation, here are some easy habits to establish:

- Carefully and properly shut down your sprinkling system for the season, making sure the stop and waste valve is off with no leaks. A leak 1/32-inch in size, roughly the size of a pencil lead, would cause a loss of 6,000 gallons per month!
- When doing laundry, match the water level to the size of the load.
- When shopping for a new washing machine, compare resource savings among Energy Star models. Some can save up to 20 gallons of water per load.
- Limit the amount of water when brushing your teeth.
- When we do our part to conserve water today we help provide water for future generations to come.
